RE: LYNDEN PINDLING INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT EXPANSION PROJECT NASSAU, BAHAMAS

Dear Mr. Bortolussi:

It gives me great pleasure to write this letter commending Newway Concrete Forming for their dedication, outstanding performance and their excellent level of quality on the Lynden Pindling International Airport Expansion Project.

This complicated project with significant logistical challenges required Newway to mobilize staff, equipment and materials over 5,000 kilometers away from their Vancouver head office in less than 30 days.

Newway with their international experience was able to attract a premier group of skilled tradesmen from all over North America to relocate to the Bahamas for this project. It is truly amazing that many of these tradesmen have been working with you for over 15 years and their commitment and respect for their work and Newway is unlike anything I have ever witnessed. I was also impressed how Newway focused on the training and development of over forty local Bahamian carpenters, laborers and equipment operators.

This two-level 247,000SF project consisted of over 250 columns, a complicated 140,000SF high-lift moment frame suspended slab with countless deep beams and girders. The structural columns and suspended slabs were formed, poured and stripped in less than 6 months, almost one month ahead of schedule.

From day one Newway's Project Manager, Superintendent, Foreman and Carpenters were easy to deal with, provided cost effective solutions to issues which arose on-site and understood the objectives of our site team and our client.

Your team's commitment to safety on the project was impressive and your ability to train and educate your newly hired local tradesmen about the importance of safety was something your company should be proud of.

Newway Forming was key to the current success of the project, and I would personally like to thank Chris Birtch, Joë Rego, Mark, Ivano, Rosa and the entire Newway team for their dedication to the project and commitment to schedule, safety and quality on this one of a kind project.

Yours truly,
LED COR CONSTRUCTION BAHAMAS LIMITED
